Município: CORNÉLIO PROCÓPIO

An aerial photograph showing a significant erosion event. A wide, deep gully filled with reddish-brown sediment has formed, cutting through a lush green agricultural field. The gully runs diagonally from the top center towards the bottom right. To the right of the gully, there is a line of trees and a road. In the background, a farm with several buildings is visible. The surrounding area is mostly green fields with some patches of bare, reddish soil.
